

WESTERLY

There is much dissatisfaction at the action of the town council in barring the town hall from the use of the town hall, especially as there is no other place in town available for such an assembly, except the state armory, and that cannot be had without legislative consent. The claim is made that before any radical action was taken, people interested ought to have been given opportunity to be heard. It is said, however, that appeal can be taken from the town council to the town meeting and that this will be done.

What caused the drastic action was the complaint of the janitor that he could not be relieved of night work as it was a physical strain beyond the endurance of any one man. It was not a matter of money, as he received $2 for every night the hall was opened in addition to his regular pay. He reminded the council that it was considerable to clean up after a fair was held. The janitor's complaint was taken into consideration and the council decided to bar the town hall from the use of the town hall.

With fair and dances with refreshments for sale eliminated, the town clerk, who is custodian of the building, was authorized to employ assistance for the janitor, whenever considered necessary. It is said that the janitor of the town hall is the best paid man in the town in the town, and is entitled to every cent he receives.

Dr. Elizabeth M. Gardiner, director of the Rhode Island Welfare department, outlined the plan to follow up birth registration for the purpose of preventing infant mortality at the annual meeting of the East Greenwich Visiting Nurse and Anti-Tuberculosis association Monday afternoon.

Dr. Henry E. Utter of Providence, formerly of Westerly, spoke in detail on the milk question, telling of the preparation of milk as a food for infants. Willie H. Chandler, also of Providence, spoke on the modern health crusade which it is planned to introduce in the public schools for the education of the children.

Perfection's Price In Tire Building

A tire-maker's first problem is to decide how much he can give for the money. This, and every other question in the building, depends upon policies.

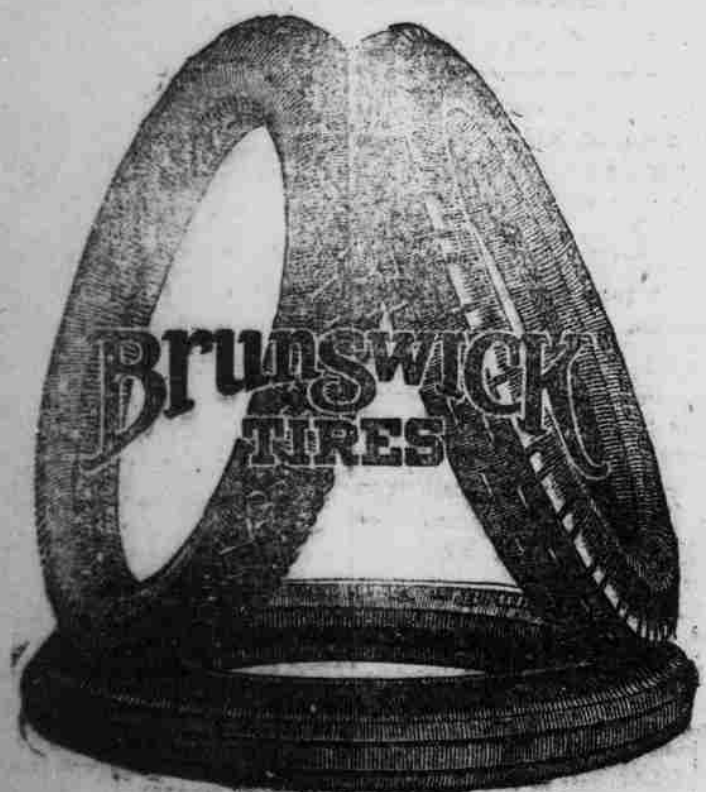

A super-tire, such as The Brunswick, can be made only by a concern which knows well and appreciates that there is nothing exclusive in the tire industry except high standards.

Since 1845 the House of Brunswick has held first place in every line it entered. Brunswick Tires, as more and more motorists come to know them, will certainly be awarded that coveted place held only by the superfine.

Motorists who buy one Brunswick usually adopt it for complete equipment. Yet this is not strange, since the first one so completely proves its superiority.

If the name of Brunswick certifies to you, as to most men, an extraordinary tire, at no higher price, would it not be good business to test one or two Brunswick Tires?
